SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-West Territories and British Columbia are granted for a period of one year at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,500 acres will be leased to any one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made to the appropriate minister in the province in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the lands may be described by section and range, or by roads, sections and unsurveyed territory, the latter to be indicated by a line.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5, which will be retained if the rights applied for are not available but not otherwise.

Applications for a lease may be made to the minister of the mine at the rate of five cents per acre.

Every lease of coal mining rights which are not being operated shall furnish the district land office with a sworn statement to that effect at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, and will not affect any surface rights or lease of land for any other purpose.

For full information application should be made to the appropriate minister of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. Cory
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon a farming land, owned by him in the vicinity of the land intended for the homestead, residence may be satisfied by residence upon his farm.

Six months notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of the Royal Canadian Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

RAILROAD WAR IS STILL ON

MISLEAD ONE ANOTHER

Apparently One Year Other Will Gain an Advantage When Construction Begins--Corbin Survey Connects with Milwaukee at Boundary.

A Columbia Falls news dispatch gives the latest gossip concerning the contest between the Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound and Great Northern railroads in an effort to be first to get a line into the coal fields of southwestern Canada. Apparently the two companies are now simply jockeying for position, each bent on preventing the other from gaining any advantage when buildings. The salient item as relates to this locality is, that the Corbin survey has been tied onto that of the Milwaukee at the boundary, indicating the Corbin affiliation. It is also intimated that the C. P. R. is interested, through the Corbin project, and will work in conjunction with the Milwaukee. The dispatch reads:

COLUMBIA FALLS, Mont., June 30--The fight between the rival roads in the Flathead continues. Numerous crews of surveyors are operating in various localities, but as to their plans nothing is clear. To many of the most intelligent observers much of the work that has been done and is now being done appears more like maneuvering for the purpose of misleading each other than earnest railroad work.

The Milwaukee has finished its survey in the Swan river country and has almost finished between Columbia Falls and the south fork of the north fork of the Flathead. Beeman's crew is still working in the canyon about 20 miles north of Columbia Falls. McCay's crew is working southward from Columbia Falls toward Kalispell. Edgerton's crew has just finished its work from the boundary line south, and has been transferred to other work.

A crew, supposed to be for the Great Northern, that for some time has been in the vicinity of Creighton working toward Kalsipell, has just moved camp to Scott's farm, four miles due south of Columbia Falls.

Several crews are working in the valley without a banner or other insignia that would enlighten the public as to their identity. From their mysterious movements it is quite clear that the work of keeping tabs on each other's movements is by no means the least expensive part of the work now in progress.

Talft, for the Great Northern, is here and is sending engineers up the south fork of the Flathead. This stream heads in a low pass near Avon on the Northern Pacific and has been much talked of as a feasible route for that road to reach the coal fields on the north fork. Some of its tributaries also head in the main range at the Sun river pass.

The Corbin engineers have completed their preliminary line from Corbin south to the boundary line on the north fork, tied to the Milwaukee survey from the south, and are working back. Locating Great Northern engineers who were on the north fork, say there is no doubt that the Canadian Pacific and Milwaukee are working together under an agreement of some kind. They seem to be more talkative than the Milwaukee men and some of them have said, "Well, we're the ones that have to adapt our line to the Corbin project, for building in the Flathead country, and when they have finished the Great Northern will still be in position to do its share of the business."

Police Court News.

A man named Carimach was arrested by the police Thursday evening for assaulting Walter Ametta with a knife. He was fined $20 and costs.

A group caught stealing a ride on a freight train pulled by the police and gives them the day at Macleod. He thanked the court and said he was traveling that way anyway.

The Customs receipts for the Port of Frank for April, May and June were $7,305. Last year the receipts were $4,131.95, an increase of $3,074.

LEAGUE LEADERS BEATEN

MINERS AT WORK AGAIN

SUPPLEMENT OF COAL STRIKE COMPLETED AND WORK RESUMES.

BOTH SIDES PLEASED

Agreement Signed up at Homers Thursday and all the mines were in operation next day. Differential still 10¢--Differential U. settled.

The final act completing the settlement of the coal strike took place at Homers Thursday last when the agreement ratified by referendum of the local unions affected, was signed up by the officers of the operators association and the mine workers. The agreement binds the operators and their employees for two years from the first of last April and for that period peace and prosperity in the coal mining regions may be expected to prevail.

With one exception all of the mines affected have resumed work. The men decided to begin Friday and all the mines in this district with the exception noted, commenced work on that day. Coleman, Little and Bellevue remained with full crews and Homers, Lethbridge, Royal City, Canmore and Bankhead are reported to have recommenced under satisfactory factory conditions. Both the operators and men appear to be well satisfied with the final result of the long struggle and in consequence the outlook for the next two years seems most hopeful. Considerable coal is already going to market and within a few days the aggregate output will be as large as ever.

The one exception in the list of mines affected, as above referred to, is that of the Hillcrest company of Lethbridge. The management of Hillcrest declined to reopen until the matter of the differential claimed in the price of pillar work which was referred by the new agreement to a joint arbitration committee, was finally settled. Accordingly the new arbitration committee was at once formed with the Rev. H. R. Grant again as chairman and a meeting was held at Macleod Monday. After a hearing, the chairman reserved decision which will probably be rendered today.

The Leitch Collieries, which has never suspended operations, comes also within the scope of the new agreement but being classed as "new work" a special agreement has yet to be drawn up. The arbitration committee but agreements covering this company, the Royal Collieries, Homers etc, which also are under the same classification, will eventually be signed up. Meantime work is carried on under the new agreement.

A disgraceful affair

A disgraceful affair which seemed to afford some people a good deal of amusement, but it was not so funny after all. A man and woman from Hillcrest went to Blairmore to get married but before reaching the parsonage where the ceremony was to take place, the man got so drunk he was unable to walk. A rig was procured but he refused to get in and finally dragged himself across the distance. Eventually the parsonage was reached but the minister very properly refused to perform the ceremony. At last accounts the groom had to lay a tree where he was left to sober up. Whether the wedding subsequently took place or not is not stated.

THE GOSSIP A KNOCKER.

Some stories have been going the rounds in Frank during the past two weeks which can have no other effect than that of greatly injuring the business situation in the town. There was not the slightest foundation for them yet certain persons prone to gossip and pass along every 'garn' they hear, always a little augmented of course, have been the means of getting them pretty thoroughly circulated, so widely in fact, that whereas we ordinarily do not regard it as the part of wisdom to repeat such stories or comment on them, the stage has now been reached wherein some reference to the tales referred to, we deem necessary with a view to perhaps preventing their further spread to the outside, thus weakening confidence and thereby doing unnecessary and unwarranted injury to business.

Ten days or two weeks ago, a cave occurred in one part of the Frank mine and it became necessary to lay off a number of men because their working place was temporarily closed. The next day speculation was rife as to whether the laying off of the men meant, that is, among the gossips of Frank, of whom, there is undoubtedly a superfluity. The next day the cause of the lay off had been discovered; it was said the mine would close at the end of June and the next the cause of the closing had been discovered; it was because the company was in financial distress; the bank had refused to carry the company so the mine would surely close at the end of the month and the whole blooming town was going to ballast.

Now what do you think of supposedly sane men repeating such utter nonsense to the manifest detriment of every business interest in their town? And it is the utter nonsense. The Frank Paper is in a position to authoritatively state that there is not and never has been the slightest foundation for that yarn and it would seem to us to be manifest to whomsoever started the story. In the first place, had the story been true, there are but two men in the town who could have any knowledge of the fact, General Manager Muller and the manager of the bank. Now, we do not think the manager of the company would be likely to tell such a thing if it were true and certainly the manager of the bank would not dare to, even if he were so inclined which is of course out of the question. This truth alone ought to have been enough to deter any person from repeating such a story if he ever stopped to think twice after hearing it. But the gossip never thinks of applying his own reasoning powers to the determination of the probability of truth of a new story for being so busy finding some other person who has not heard it to tell it to. And so this very damaging and wholly untrustful story has been given circulation for no other reason than that the scoundrel who originated it and the gossips who repeated it had to have something to talk about.

And other tales having to do with the affairs of the company are being retailed, for which, there is no better foundation than the other, we are assured. Now of a verity gentlemen, is it not about time to cease this meddlesome gossip, at least until you have some reason to believe the story you repeat to be true? By this time, you are no doubt convinced the story in question was not true; the company has not closed down, a full complement of men is working and by reference to another column of this issue it will be noted that improvements are going ahead and that the plans of the company are for progress, not regression. If you will believe the evidence of your own eyes you will realize that you who repeated that story were not warranting in doing so.

The man who permits himself to indulge in this sort of gossip may not know it and would probably resent the idea but he is nevertheless a knocker. Every time he repeats a damaging story concerning which he has no evidence of truth, he administers a distinct knock to somebody or something and if it happens to be his town that suffers from it, he is the worst kind of a knocker because the injury he causes is wide spread and not confined to individuals.

Now, in all common sense, lets overcome the predilection for gossiping which has become such a disease in Frank, cease to be knockers and join the boozers club for Frank, notwithstanding all the drawbacks the town has suffered and against the judgement of the pessimists, is a sooner. In five years time you will see such things as you never dreamed of and it will be largely due to that same company which the gossips would put out of business. You can put that in the back of your head so you will remember it.

COULDN'T CAPTURE BISON

Spokane Wash., June 30.—A second attempt by Canadian officers in charge of the Pablo bison herd at Ravalli, Montana to load the animals for shipment to the Dominion, after several weeks work resulted in corralling only 170 or half the number of bison purchased by the Canadian government last year. The task of rounding up the animals is a hard one. The bison repeatedly broke through fences, many finally escaping to the hills.

The round-up has been abandoned and the remainder of the herd of some 510 animals will be given to the United States government as a gift from Canada to be preserved in the interests of the American nation. Canada now has a herd of 650 bison.
